Distinctive signs

Bruce Willis is Pisces Ascendant in Virgo, with the Moon in Aquarius (tropical zodiac)

Warning

Entering into the heart of the subject, otherwise said, Bruce Willis, the reader finds a part of his life, existing or latent, always personal. These words are not judgements : they propose a thought process. " The stars influence, but are not deciding factors", said Ptolome the alexandian around the year 140. Yes free will exists, even if this is conditioned by the world we live in. He must take advantage of this free will, as it is this that allows him to evolve and to progress. Signs are neither good or bad, they simply mark out the territories on which we evolve. The stars will push him towards a contradiction, and in the end, it is he who decides his future.

Certain techniques used here need a precise hour of birth. In certain cases, five minutes can be sufficient to fix the climate of his existance. If twins can have quite different lives, this shows that a few minutes can bring profound differences, on a case by case basis. He must not take fear at the texts that follow, but take inspiration in one objective, live a full and enriching life.

The essential elements of the chart

A calculation of the dominants of his astral chart shows a personality that is potentially strong. What does a strong personality mean? That his mind dominates and that this determines his choices. His instincts are not handicaps, as his conscience wants to dominate daily influences. Put simply, Bruce Willis does what he wants.

The most important of the four elements

The most sensitive and emotive of the four elements is the type Water. Because of this, the exterior world and the entourage can strongly influence Bruce Willis. A great capacity of integration, a nature of not taking care of things, pushes him to adopt what comes from the exterior. One can see rapidly with whom he has spoken or what he has seen or read. The type Water, as soon as he is in confidence, is predisposed to tell and to express his emotions, because his personality can be diluted in emotion depending on the circumstances. Irrational fears and the blues flow, depending on the cases. He is someone who is very sensitive and it is for this that he motors so much when he fights with others or tries to change the ambient climate. Depending on his point of view, it is inconceivable that others do not accept his values, which he judges to be good or bad. Sentiments are not measured externally. One cannot divine their depth. This is why he can be hurt when others do not react as he wishes. Because of the contents of his sentiments, Bruce Willis can be embarrassed when he has to express what he feels. He can want to compensate in diverse ways, be it through authoritarianism, arrogance, futility or pride. Those that gravitate in his entourage feel a climate of oppression. He is not necessarily responsible.

The most important of the twelve houses: X

---

The life of Bruce Willis is driven by the desire to achieve something. He is looking for a consideration. He wants to take his life in hand and do something. He can be ambitious or seek to remain free and independent. He may want to achieve what he has in mind, no matter if he has the power or not, the important thing is to do what he wants. He can move up and make his place in his world. At worst, his ambition can push others to walk, unless his objectives imprison him. He wants to expand his consciousness, but the goals he fixes can sometimes lead this. He seeks something exceptional, he would like to be an example or leave a trace of his passage on Earth. If he can be lonely at times, he must not forget that the most important thing that drives him in life is his conscience.

His way of thinking

The state of mind of Bruce Willis is concrete, straight, realist and materialist, without the sense of these adjectives being derogatory. He would like to be surer and more foolproof. He likes constancy.

Bruce Willis is someone positive and even if his I.Q. is high, he knows how to remain accessible. He simplifies and finds adequate solutions, without denigrating anyone. The planet renders him neither anxious nor pessimistic.

The supple character of Bruce Willis allows him to slide into numerous situations. He knows how to feel well, and his affective and familial experiences show in his way of thinking. He doesn't really go for reality, and prefers to talk to people who have similar ideas and values as he does. He takes on easily the sentiments of others and catches the nuances.

Bruce Willis is from a certain side very positive, he knows perfectly how to round out the edges to preserve unity and harmony. His sense of values is excellent, he knows how to cajole, seduce, and he can do his best for that. He possesses a built in sense of ideal behaviour for any situation. His judicious way of thinking allows him to give the adequate response, which allows him to say things openly without upsetting anyone. It motivates him to profit from the situation. On the relational level, he knows how to recognize the best in others and to bring this out.

The state of mind of Bruce Willis makes him someone easy to live with. Not pushy, seeking harmony and good taste, artist, Bruce Willis seeks more to facilitate his existence than anything else. Sensual, he likes everything that brings him sensations : music, pleasures of the table and of the flesh. Quite a good talker, he likes to seduce and to captivate others. He gives the best of himself when he loves something or someone.

Bruce Willis has a very emotive state of mind. He disperses his emotions and his energy, which pushes him to see the worst, and that can irritate others. He can get excited for nothing, too easily served by his sentiments and instincts. His blowing up, even if it is not based on nastiness, does him no good, because he never gets to the end of things. He has perhaps not the appropriate attitude.

Bruce Willis does not have a state of mind that is crazy and extrovert, but he is positive. He is rather meticulous, rigorous, attentive and posed, because he detests surprises that are not desired. He is rather responsible, because he does not fear work. He is wary of all that can screw up his plans, which allows him to achieve a considerable amount of work. He likes to learn and he considers erudite people to be indispensable to their world. He does not like superficiality. If he can be a bit belated, his erudition is great. He has the capacities.

The affective life

On the relational level, Bruce Willis lacks self confidence, which can play some games with him. A certain dependence floats in the air, his or that of his partner. He can flee through fear or let himself be absorbed by the other. One could say that he is hiding something, unless his illusions take him where he does not want to go. His attitude, a little too detached and impersonal, can derange his partner. He just cannot say no in a simple and direct way, through fear of hurting the other.

One appreciates Bruce Willis more than he estimates others. He easily centralises others around him. He likes to shine during evenings out or in receptions. He knows how to give an effect, he needs to be useful, if not indispensable, and he needs to feel important. The ideal is often a deception as it is placed too high. He has difficulty finding a level of equality with others. But he will know how to find good people, because he does not lack resources.

Bruce Willis has a sensual aura, comforting and benevolent, that makes him appreciated. He is loved, because he has an attitude that puts everyone at ease. A good imagination pushes him forwards on the relational level. He adapts instinctively to others, which puts everyone at ease. He needs to be with someone to give of his best.

Conciliatory, relaxed and open, Bruce Willis knows how to put everyone at ease. As he knows what behaviour to adopt, he knows perfectly when to be firm and when to be harder. He knows how to get pleasure. Delicate, subtle and sensual, he knows how to improve his affective life. His attitude seeks going in the direction that is most positive for all.

Confident in himself, Bruce Willis knows how to create a climate that relaxes others. It is true that his conduct is always adequate. Jupiter incites him to some excesses of which his partner does not really complain. He knows how to be open and generous, which gives him a very sympathetic side and which makes him seductive.

This planet, at certain moments in the existence of Bruce Willis, undermines the world of relations. This does not necessarily signify deception and divorce, but Bruce Willis must expect frustrations and disappointments. Certain weaknesses bother his sentimental life. While this planet is active, it is possible that his affective life will not be full and happy. This will not last, but efforts will be necessary to conserve love.

Bruce Willis is someone who is stable and who keeps his word. When he engages himself at the relational level, it is rarely on a whim (this can come from other planets), but because it is something he has carefully thought through. For him, love is something serious. He will not go back on his word. Union is sometimes more important than love. For him, love is something very profound. The hitch comes from him not being able to take things lightly. The planet accords here a relationship that can become really stable and profound.

Professional life

The jobs that captivate Bruce Willis are those where one teaches, explains, learns, educates and where communication is queen, those where an exchange of ideas prevail and those where interviews, talks and other discussions are king. Journalism, information and education, amongst others, reply to these criteria.

On the relational level, Bruce Willis needs a place at his level. He does not accept secondary places unless for a good reason. He assumes easily superior posts, under the condition of being creative. He needs to be at the centre of things and he has everything to shine at a professional level. Armed with great capacities, one could believe that he is capable of anything. Sooner or later, success will appear.

On the professional level, gifted with an innate sense of tact and armed with his imagination, Bruce Willis can do wonders in contacts with his clientel. Very equilibrated, his sense of adaption is perfect. He does not let himself run away with his emotions, but utilises them. His peaceful and paternal sides make him both popular and appreciated.

This planet intensifies the importance of his profession in the life of Bruce Willis. In principle, his career is a source of jubilation, because the planet is very well placed. It allows a promotion or a new post of something better. One can speak, on the condition that his hour of birth is exact, of a success at one level or another, on the professional side.

On the professional level, Bruce Willis has problems of communication. His curiosity and his ideas are not lived at the same level as others. It seems useless to explain himself, or his colleagues say things that bother him. He is not made for a metier in relation to business, commerce or administration, or those involved in writings. By avoiding to take things too literally, and in fleeing vanity and soft options, he can fix this embarrassment.

On the professional level, Bruce Willis does not have an adequate attitude. He doesn't feel loved. One could say that he seeks to give pleasure, but sets about it poorly. Or he is too kind, or too tough, but his comportment is not always appropriate for the situations. He does not know what reaction to choose. He does not know how to seduce, arrange or charm. He has to take care not to let small displeasures ruin his days, if he does he will regret it. In the case that eventual affairs of the heart are linked to work, these will become a source of deceptions.

On the professional level, Bruce Willis has problems linked to his energy and his capacity to take decisions. He must avoid all forms of rivalry, of jealousy, of vindictiveness or professional competition, because he is not made for that, and it can turn against him, through his fault or not. His emotiveness has to be controlled, because this is a source of problems. If problems are present, it is important that he be able to relax, if not he will have trouble concentrating his energy.

Bruce Willis has the soul of an organizer or of an administrator. An excellent self confidence and an impressive view of the whole, make him someone who is appreciated for his opinions and his good sense. Imperturbable, his exemplary professional attitude always finds a result or a solution that touches on opportunism. His comportment is positive and others appreciate him. He knows how to delegate and it is also for this that he succeeds in the missions for which he is chosen.

The most important planets

(Sun)

Bruce Willis is an intelligent person, capable of taking in at a glance a global situation, and to see at once the practical consequences. He is not a theoretician but an achiever.

In reality, he lacks assurance. He hides this by an attitude that is sometimes arrogant, in fact "that it is not said that...". He risks during his life to miss certain things that could be profitable to him, simply because he is looking for an ideal that does not exist. His personality is often a little superior, showing a protecting image, that is generally benevolent and friendly. But as soon as his image is touched, he barricades himself behind a wall of indifference. He is afraid of not getting to the end of his enterprises following a bad evaluation of the possibilities.

The world of sentiments is delicate, with him. Even though he is a big sentimental, his ideal is sometimes too high and he rarely finds what he is seeking. Things would go better when he starts taking others for what they are and not for an ideal, as if not, the result will be mediocre. Those that are under the influence of the Moon or Venus suit him perfectly, as they will admire and support him during his blue periods. He likes to let himself be loved. He is not necessarily faithful in marriage, since he places himself a little above ordinary morals.

From a financial point of view, he should take care to not spend uniquely for "the façade". His situation, brilliant in appearance, is not always solid ; one error suffices ♦ that he fears ♦ for a fall. Watch out for speculations.

The Aquarius is the most important sign

One should not confound dominant sign and solar sign. The solar sign is that where the Sun is found at one's birth. The dominant sign is that which will impose itself upon the conscience of Bruce Willis, in the course of his existence.

This sign is determined by the planet that directs, not the sign, but the constellation of the Ascendant.

(Aquarius)

Bruce Willis has a nature that is very independent, sometimes overly independent. His temperament can be both very deep and more superficial. He would like to be freer. He manifests himself spontaneously. Intelligent and extremist, he enjoys debating and struggling to escape, in his view, from anything resembling a chain. He says what he thinks, regardless of different sensitivities. And he attracts some unwanted trouble, it happens that his lack of tact troubles his friendships.

His intelligence is not moving towards concrete things, because he is not someone who is materialistic. He prefers his world of ideas, that he will always defend. Original, he likes to disturb the established order, sometimes just to see what effect this will have on others. He looks to the future and progress. One might even say that the past does not exist for him.

In love his attitude is sometimes uncompromising and it can seem cruel. Without intellectual interest, he does not engage himself easily. A stifling and jealous spouse would be the worst punishment that we could inflict on him. As he needs to feel free, he can escape any commitments.

He moves a lot and gets unfortunately only a few concrete results. This is because he has no sense of utility and is not sufficiently self critical to see if what he does is good or not. Yet he is an idealist and he is happy at his work on the side. He likes technology and originality, he likes to work in isolation. He is very sociable, but he prefers to work alone.

Money is not his first goal. Depending on the context, some instability may occur because he can spend without counting and then just get by with almost nothing, as if money did not count. He may leave a job because it no longer motivates him, or more for personal reasons related to someone in particular, or for ideological reasons. Therefore he prefers research to careers in money.

Other points

Sun - Ascendant in declination

---

Without really noticing, Bruce Willis imposes himself, and without really wanting to, brings out negative attitudes in others. He has difficulty making concessions, and suffers from capitulating. If he can come to realize that his too entire attitude indisposes others, he can become someone more expansive, more generous, more capable of lighting their paths. His ego should be kept in bounds. Humility will make him someone wise.

Moon - Mars in declination

A little gruff, Bruce Willis doesn't like sentimentality. Very independent, he is always on the defensive in some way, at the same time impassioned and a little unstable. He tries to combine emotionalism and combativeness, going sometime to the end of his tether, because he cannot stop. He must take care when he loses his calmness, as this house tends this way. Fortunately, he comes to his senses quickly and has sufficient confidence in himself that he does not feel insecure.

Moon - Part of Fortune in opposition

Bruce Willis is someone who is quite sensitive, and his sentiments and moral are of great importance for his equilibrium. He needs to feel in security, which is easier said than done. One also notes an important role that his mother played in his life, which could explain his behaviour, which is sometimes unstable. He can adapt easily to people and to circumstances.

Venus - Saturn in declination

Bruce Willis is lucid concerning his affective relationships. He knows one has to give, without necessarily getting anything in return, and he is ready for some sacrifices to get what he wants. Clear and honest, he is not very outgoing, since he is always expecting the worst. He makes efforts to adapt, but remains timid until he has proof of the other's sentiments. He prefers to work alone. He doesn't like disorder which disturbs him. He is not outright generous. The more he takes life positively, the more he will be able to profit from what he feels are real values. He knows pertinently how to judge others.

Jupiter - Saturn in trine

---

Bruce Willis is ambitious. He knows he must prove himself and that nothing is given free. He wants to construct and get rich. For this, he is capable of expending a lot of energy, because he wants to succeed, despite the sacrifices. He can be an impressive organiser, realist and solid, who believes in what he does. His attitude is responsible, optimist, decided and equilibrated and this makes him someone who is available and patient, and of constant effort. He has vast knowledge, that he employs correctly, and he doesn't take inconsiderable risks, because he knows how to learn from life's lessons. He knows how to pass on his ideas, he likes to stimulate, Because of this he can go a long way.

Pluto - North Node in declination

---

The text that follows should be read with caution, as it concerns only a few people. Bruce Willis feels a force in him that leads him to overtake everyone. He can feel all powerful and he wants to direct and to command, be it for a transformation or for a job. He can wish to influence others through his magnetic side. He can manipulate or be manipulated.

Pluto - Midheaven in declination

---

This Aspect applies to a rare number of persons and it is quite possible that the text below is inappropriate for Bruce Willis. If it concerns him, it indicates that something will be destroyed in his life. Deaths can greatly influence his destiny. A collective pressure can cause some changes. Bruce Willis is under pressure, he has to take a step back and not let himself be impressed. His destiny can drag him along in spite of himself, he does not control everything, he submits to his destiny. He wants to succeed and have some power nevertheless. It is possible that some sort of reconnaissance or degradation appears in his life. He can be irrevocable and pitiless in seeking personal power. He will do everything to maintain his reputation, once he has attained his objectives.

North Node - Midheaven in declination

---

This Aspect is not easy to live. Bruce Willis can feel that he has little support. He can build a fortress to defend himself. His profession can suffer from a certain vagueness. He can be magnetic, irritable, unhappy, distant or obsessed by power, unless he suffers from this himself. He can know attitudes of fleeing or cause intense passions. The big danger is that he leads head first, and finds himself on the floor, exhausted, because he has not planned anything and his hopes were based on thin air. Bruce Willis can blame himself needlessly or suffer affective extortion.

South Node - Midheaven in declination

---

The life of Bruce Willis is littered with pitfalls of all kinds. He can be marginal, irritable or distant. One could say that he tries to be different from others. He wants to do what he wants, and not take into account others. This Aspect is difficult to live by, because it creates instabilities on the path of Bruce Willis. He should watch out for the unexpected of all kinds, which makes him feel that he has no support. His insecurity risks sending him to the antipode of what he seeks. A re-look at himself is necessary. Certain persons carrying this Aspect are confronted at moments of their existence with violence, accidents, or psychological harassment. Others try to solidify their position at any price, and in any old way.
